To our valued Distributor, Hardscape Architect and Contractor:

Thank you for your interest in using Perm Edge for your commercial permeable paver project.

Perm Edge is a new PICP innovation in edge restraint, introduced in the spring of 2011 for residential applications by SEK-Surebond Corporation, the makers of Snap Edge Paver Edge Restraint. Perm Edge's unique construction makes it the ideal edge restraint for permeable projects designed for residences such as patios and walkways.

While we are excited about the products potential, it is important to point out that we simply have no testing, nor an installed track record of performance, that would support the long term effectiveness of Perm Edge in a commercial application.

That said, we understand your options to secure the edge of a commercial permeable paver installation are limited. In many cases, your only option is a concrete curb which often times is not practical or cost effective. In the event you elect to install Perm Edge in this application, SEK-Surebond is not prepared to offer a product warranty as to product performance in this application at this time. We will be evaluating all Perm Edge commercial installations to collect valuable data measuring performance such as:

- Heavy traffic volumes
- The impact of service vehicles such as plows
- Light duty and heavy duty vehicular traffic

Our evaluation will be measuring the effects of these factors on the ability of the Perm Edge to maintain the integrity of the pavement without the structural capabilities of the edging being overwhelmed.

We appreciate the opportunity you may be affording us to evaluate Perm Edge on this commercial project. SEK-Surebond will monitor its performance over the next few years, not only on this project but all commercial projects in an effort to accurately represent the products warrantable uses to the industry.

Thank you for your interest and support.
